We understand that choice is a priority for our guests who are watching what they eat. While we are committed to providing as accurate nutritional information as possible, there may be differences between the actual nutritional content of your freshly prepared menu item and the nutritional values provided in this document. The nutritional values we provide are derived from a computer analysis of recipes with the help of a standard database (ESHA) and data from our suppliers. The values listed do not account for the natural variables that occur within ingredients, variations that occur due to the house-made nature of each plate or the variations that may occur due to the substitutions that guests request.
